BRITAIN'S SERVICEMEN & WOMEN ARE BEING TREATED LIKE . . .

2nd CLASS CITIZENS!

BRITISH MEN AND WOMEN who have given to their country their most loyal service throughout the past sixty years are now being treated like second class citizens. Britain's servicemen and women and ex-servicemen and women are being deliberately discriminated against by Government and Local Authorities alike who refuse to acknowledge the service they have given to their country.

Immigrants and refugees, getting off a plane and entering Britain for the first time are being better looked after than people who have risked their lives for their country.

Soldiers who were prepared to die for Britain are being dismissed out of hand when they apply for jobs with Cleveland Council. Men and women from the Armed Services, suffering the strain of defence cuts, now find that being a highly-trained soldier stops them getting a job.

Cleveland Council claims to be an 'equal opportunity employer' - that means they employ blacks, Asians, queers and paedophiles. But like many other Councils those equal opportuntities don't apply to ex-servicemen and women because they are getting an occupational pension.

Returning to civilian life after an average of 22 years where they have received some of the best training in the world, Britain's servicemen and women have no homes, no roots and desperately need to find a job to support their families. Their small pension is to help them secure that home after a lifetime of moving from camp to camp.

Next year's defence cuts will mean a huge number of ex-servicemen and women coming on to the job market. They deserve a job as much as any other Briton and certainly more than an immigrant or refugee just arriving in Britain.

It is disgraceful treatment from corrupt and careerist Tory, Labour and Liberal politicians.

Hero Gary Lomas now has to fight for compensation.

A SOLDIER who was blinded in one eye during the Gulf conflict is being refused compensation for his injury.

Gary Lomas from Blackburn in Lancashire was a member of the team that abseiled into the British Embassy in Kuwait to clear booby traps. He lost his right eye when a mine exploded in his face.

Just before Gary left for the Gulf the Ministry of Defence told him to make out a will and take out high-risk insurance. A representative from Friends Provident was allowed into the camp to sell policies.

But the small print on Gary's policy said he can only be paid out if he is blind in both eyes or killed and they have rejected his claim.

So a hero of the Gulf War who lost an eye and still has shrapnel embedded in his brain now has another fight on his hands - to gain compensation.

What a disgraceful way to treat our servicemen.

A National Front Government would acknowledge the debt owed to the men and women who loyally serve their country in the forces. In our Britain they would be given the treatment they deserve - that of FIRST CLASS CITIZENS!.

CLEVELAND COUNTY COUNCIL
an equal opportunity employer
(b) Retire early but have been given a full occupational pension as if you had reached normal retirement age?
YES/NO

The discriminatory question in the job application form.

WORCESTER CITY Council has shown its contempt for Britain's ex-servicemen by raising the rent for a local veteran's club by 2,000%.

Barbourne Ex-Servicemen's Club in Worcester has been told that their old rent of £900 a year has been increased to £17,000 a year!

The club, next to the Swan Theatre in the town, was founded in 1946 and is the social centre for many veterans. Its members built and paid for the club, which over the years has raised thousands of pounds for charity, But now because the council owns the site it is built on, the club faces extinction.

What a disgraceful way to treat man and women who have so loyally served their country.

The Barbourne Ex-Servicemen's Club which is facing a crippling rent rise of 2,000%.

DESPITE THE disgraceful treatment dished out to our servicemen, British men and women are still the most patriotic in Europe.

A survey of more than 15,000 people in ten countries for the academic European Values Group found that 68% of Britons would fight for their country.

The continental average was 45% with only a quarter of Italians saying they would take up arms for their country.

Drug Money Puts Miners on Dole!

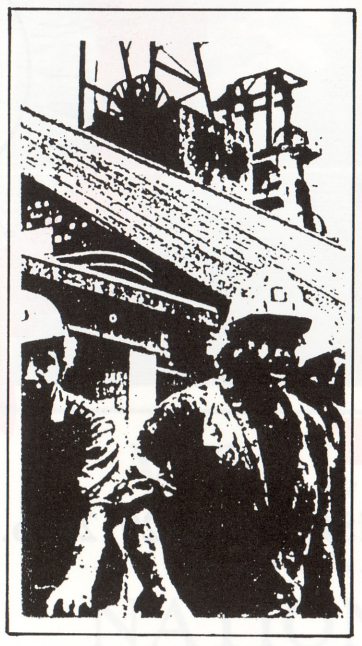
MONEY FROM drugs is being used by the British Government to put British coal miners on the dole.

Cheap Colombian coal, subsidised by money made from the sale of cocaine, is being imported into Scotland and Northern Ireland with the blessing of those at Westminster.

Drug cartels are using the coal to launder their ill-gotten gains through the British coal industry and their action is putting British mining jobs at risk.

The drug-money subsidy and the use of child labour down the mines makes Colombian coal, transported half way around the world to Scotand, still cheaper than coal mined in Scotland. The Government knows why it is cheaper but refuses to ban the imports.

The National Front would halt the destruction of the British coal industry by stemming foreign coal imports. NF Government policy would mean that every pit would be kept working until its reserves were exhausted. Profitable open-cast and drift-mining would be used to subsidise deep-mine production and the importation of coal would only be considered if British mines could not meet industry's requirements.



NEWSCORP, the biggest company is part of Rupert Murdoch's worldwide media empire.

WHY WE MUST HAVE A SIZEABLE MEDIA OF OUR VERY OWN!

by Stuart Lake

READERS OF The FLAG will be familiar with the power of the media and the methods by which they operate.

Take newspapers for example, by suppressing news such as Black rioting in our cities or by carrying stories of racially mixed couples or by refusing to publish letters written by NF members and supporters they are able to misinform their readers, promote anti-British views and prevent readers from learning of any opposing viewpoints.

Although it is the editorial staff that decides what goes into print it is in fact the owners of the press that decide editorial policy, after all they hire and fire the editors.

Faced with an array of national newspapers on the newsagents' shelves one would think that there is a wide range of political opinions expressed but when one considers the following facts it comes as no surprise to learn that the scope of opinions is severely limited.

A staggering 80% of all 14.6 million Daily nationals and 81% of the 17.4 million Sunday nationals sold in Britain are owned by three multi-national corporations.

The biggest company Newscorp is part of Rupert Murdoch's worldwide media empire and publishes The Sun, The Times and Today.

Mirror Group Newspapers is owned by the family of the late Czech-born Jew Robert Maxwell. It prints the Daily Mirror, Scottish Daily Record and the Sunday Mail.

A huge Canadian company Hollinger Inc. headed by Conrad Black owns The Daily Telegraph and United Newspapers which publishes the Daily Express and Daily Star. The company also owns 140 local titles including The Yorkshire Post.

Included in the "others" are The Glasgow Herald and the Sunday Observer, both owned by the mining giant Lonrho headed by Tiny Rowland. Lonrho also owns 25 local titles in Scotland.

Our aspirations of political power and undoing the damage that has been inflicted on our Race and Nation in recent decades cannot be realised until we have a sizeable media of our own.

PERKS IN THE POLICE FORCE!

IT'S GREAT to be Black and in the Police - and that's official. PC Franklyn Asumah copped a massive £20,000 from the Metropolitan Police as compensation after a colleague made a "racially derogatory remark" to him.

The Commission for Racial Equality took up Asumah's case after he had complained of being 'abused' while with the Territorial Support Group at Barnes, West London.

So is PC Asumah leaving the force? Not on your nellie - who knows when he could be in line for another big payout!

and another . . .

IT'S GREAT to be Jewish and in the Police - and that's official.

Jewish PC Nigel Brown now gets every Saturday off after complaining to the Commission for Racial Equality because the Metropolitan Police told him he had to work normal shifts.

The Metropolitan Police has now changed its rules to allow ethnic officers time off for their religious needs. Eldred Tabachnik QC for the police told a hearing discussing Brown's complaint "The Metropolitan Police is anxious to recruit members of the ethnic minorities, irrespective of their religious beliefs".

PC Brown was thrilled with the news. Being a Spurs fan he said he could now get down to White Hart Lane most Saturdays instead of working.

Make Sure You Register with a British Doctor

IN FOUR years time, because of new EC regulations, doctors from all over Europe will be able to practise medicine in Britain.

At the moment, prospective GPs from abroad must undertake a three-year training programme, but by 1995, any Euro-doctor will be able to practice anywhere in the EC.

The National Front joins the Royal College of General Practitioners in warning against registering with a Euro-doctor because of the generally lower standard of their training.

Make sure your family is registered with a British doctor.

Manchester's homosexuals turned up for titillation!

Disgusting & Revolting

HARD CORE homosexual films are being shown at Manchester's Cornerhouse under the guise of information about AIDS.

The uncensored films from Germany would normally be banned but are exempt because films shown for health education purposes do not need a censorship classification.

An employee of the Cornerhouse described the films as disgusting. "These are not health films", she told The FLAG, "Scenes contain explicit homosexual acts. They encourage the transmission of AIDS rather than warn against it".

She was also critical of the North West Regional Health Authority who had backed the event. "They put on a show under the guise of AIDS information which was in fact purely for homosexual titillation. The effect it had on those present was quite revolting."

The National Front is totally against the promotion of homosexuality in any form whatever. Normal, healthy family-orientated Britons have nothing to fear from the AIDS virus. The pollution of Britain's Blood Banks by AIDS-infected blood taken from homosexuals and drug addicts poses the only threat to decent British people.

Sharpton's OK but Scientist is banned!

THE HOME Office saw no reason to ban the entry into Britain of Black Power rabble-rouser Al Sharpton.

It was his second visit to Britain within six months and he told reporters at Heathrow that he had important work to do in mobilising the Black Community to demand its rights.

Sharpton held a meeting at West Ham Town Hall because "The area is populated by National Front supporters and I am here to show them that I am not afraid of them".

While Sharpton got the go-ahead to visit Britain, forensic scientist Fred Leuchtner was refused admission. He had been invited to Britain by historian David Irving to explain his astonishing findings after extensive research at the Auschwitz Concentration Camp.

Meticulous examination of the so-called gas chambers there, revealed there were no deposits of cyanide which should have been there in abundance if the alleged exterminations had taken place.

Such revelations were too much for Home Secretary Kenneth Baker and whether they were true or not Mr Leuchtner was not given the opportunity to reveal his findings to Britain's historians.

Black Activist Al Sharpton was allowed into Britain.

Fifth Column Training in Britain

MORE THAN 400 children were present at the Islamic Centre in Higher Antley Street, Accrington, recently when they held their annual prizegiving ceremony.

Mr. Choudry Iqbal, the grand secretary, said "Every day for two hours the children come to the mosque for lessons in reading the Koran and learning Urdu". He continued "We would like to thank all the school teachers and headmasters who turned up."

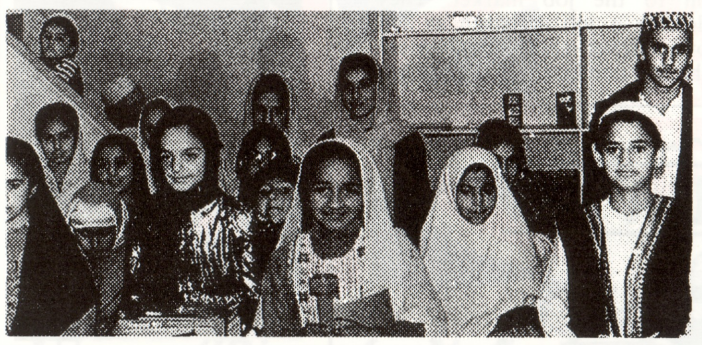
Perhaps the school teachers and headmasters will now have to learn Urdu so that they can communicate with those children in their charge.

However, the learning of Urdu by immigrants is very much in our favour because when they are repatriated their resettlement will be far easier for them.

For those who are interested in the guest grovellers, they were: Acting Superintendent Brian Woods from Accrington Police, the Hyndburn Conservative MP Ken Hargreaves, Pakistani Consul Taj Mohammed Khan and 20 local councillors. (Note only two Hyndburn councillors are Asian).

It was reported in The FLAG No. 47 that children from Higher Antley Street were used to block a main road because the council refused permission for a Muslim Language School in a terraced house. It is presumed that Acting Superintendent Woods was checking up on the childrens' progress.

Perhaps he should have informed them to respect our laws - a case of the tail wagging the dog?



For two hours every day these children go two an alien temple to receive instruction in an alien religion and learn an alien language.

RIMINI ON THE RATES!

THE CHAIRMAN of Manchester's Race Relations Committee, Khan Moghal, is in trouble after swanning off to Rimini on the Adriatic Coast for a three day conference on Immigration.

The trip, which cost the people of Manchester £1,500, was not sanctioned by the council and has led for calls for the Labour Councillor's resignation.

Moghal has refused to discuss the matter calling the charges made against him - 'racist'!

The Police Notice the Change!

"YES, WE have noticed the change in your membership this year". This was the reaction of one senior police officer after this year's highly successful Remembrance Day Parade.

The Parade which formed up in Bressenden Place, Victoria was made up almost exclusively of National Front members with no outside groups present, yet despite this the total turnout was up on last year.

The real change however was in the quality of our membership and its more accurate reflection of the population in general. The average age of the participants which has usually been in the early 20's was probably about 30-40 this year, with many more ex-servicemen and more ladies present.

The Parade was led by two wreath layers: Tom Mundy, representing the Ex-Servicemen's section and Ian Anderson, the Party Chairman. Behind them came the much improved Albert Mariner Drum Corps led by Adrian Woods, who had worked very hard to ensure a professional turn out by the Drum Corps.

The traditional flag party, as well as a host of Union Jacks, also included the flags of Australia, New Zealand, Canada, Rhodesia and South Africa. The service at The Cenotaph was most ably performed by John Hamilton of Bolton National Front.

After the parade a political rally was held back at Bressenden Place where speakers included Kelvin Sanderson, John Hamilton and NF Chairman, Ian Anderson.

The meeting was chaired by National Activities Organiser, John Hill, who had organised the whole event and who was responsible for its very smooth operation. Particular thanks must therefore go to him and also to the Midlands who had such an excellent turn-out for this important parade.

A video of Remembrance Day and two other events in 1991 is now available from Freedom Books. The video lasts for over two and a half hours and costs just £10.99 including postage.

BRANCH NEWS:

Gt Yarmouth NF have received a number of inquiries from an advertisement placed in their local newspaper. They have also received an invitation to address a local debating society.

Saturday 7th saw a day of action in Lincoln by members of Derby, Leeds, Sheffield, Hull and Wigan branches of the National Front.

Members from Birmingham NF held a picket of an International Conference on Race Relations in the city. Extensive TV, radio and local press coverage gave a deserved boost to the NF's hardest working branch. Sunday 1st December saw a collection of £122.00 raised at a Birmingham Branch meeting which had the highest percentage of ladies ever present at a meeting in the West Midlands.

Lady Jane Birdwood was the guest speaker at a packed Walsall Branch meeting on 27th November. A social to raise money for the election was held on 18th December.

There was standing room only at the December meeting of Dudley National Front where papersales were organised for Stourbridge and leafletting for the Russells Hall Estate.

Torbay have raised £817 towards the £1,200 needed for their General Election campaign. Candidate Bob Jones was again working in the constituency during November.

Eastbourne National Front have started to hold monthly meetings on Sunday afternoons in the town and a paperselling and leafletting campaign in nearby Hailsham.

Exeter NF have mailed out over 350 back issues of The FLAG to potential supporters in their target ward of Newtown.

Tory Joins the Front

ANDY Carmichael is a 29 year-old self-employed motor trader. He was the Conservative Party candidate in 1987 for the Pye Green Valley ward in his local elections in Staffordshire.

In November 1991, dismayed at the continuing influx of immigrants under the Conservative Government, Andy has joined the National Front and he will be standing as a local candidate for us this year.

Over the last few months the National Front has been recruiting from both major parties: Conservatives are flocking to us as they watch in horror as the Government continues to admit tens of thousands of immigrants and as they sell us out in Europe. Recruits have also been coming in from the Labour party, particularly in the Midlands and North of England where Neil Kinnock is regarded as a clown, who, if ever elected, is likely to be removed by the hard left.

We have evidently managed to rattle the nerves of some senior Tories. Over the last few weeks quite a few of them have been warning of the danger of a resurgent National Front. Norman Tebbit warned that unless the Tories took a strong line on Europe they would leave the only opposition to a federal Europe in the hands of the National Front.

Former Tory candidate Andy Carmichael has joined the NF.

With the National Front now being the only party representing the vast majority of the British people, the flow of recruits from the other parties is likely to turn into a flood. In the meantime we welcome Andy Carmichael who has had the guts not only to openly declare his allegiance to us but also to be a candidate for us. Let's make sure he is the first of many.

NEW YEAR MESSAGE FROM NF CHAIRMAN IAN ANDERSON

1991 WAS A YEAR of steady but unspectacular growth for the National Front, but more importantly it was the final year of the transition of the NF. The end result was shown on Remembrance Sunday when the NF had an immaculate turnout of members. Very noticeable was the increased average age of the marchers and the presence of more ladies.

As we enter the 25th year of existence of the National Front, the Party has finally matured and is now capable of offering the British people a real and viable alternative.

In 1991 we published Steve Brady's Roots of the British and the manifesto Caring For Britain. This now gives us a range of literature more comprehensive than at any time in our history, while our selection of recruitment literature is still expanding dramatically.

For a couple of months, in August and September, the Party went through a slightly rough patch, one or two members panicked, but the overwhelming majority of the membership and the leadership kept their nerve and pressed on with the changes which are essential to our long term success. As a result the last three months have seen increased recruitment and in December we managed to maintain a uniquely high level of activities until well into the Christmas period.

It is also noteworthy that it is now six years since our last internal problems - the longest tranquil period in our history and there is no sign of any future internal problems.

1992 is a year of great opportunity for the NF. We are facing a General Election and the May local elections. The NF has strong attractive policies presented in a friendly and persuasive way. In contrast the old parties are openly split on such issues as Europe and immigration, with ordinary members becoming disillusioned with the theatrics and contortions of their so-called leaders.

In countries like France and Russia the forces of nationalism have demonstrated their potency. I believe that 1992 could be a dramatic year for the NF. There is a large power vacuum in British politics, the NF is now ready and able to fill that vacuum.

Changing our movement into the National Front of 1992 has taken a lot of hard work, dedication, discipline and nerve. The results are now beginning to be shown; the only thing that could prevent us from filling the power vacuum in this country would be our own mistakes, going down political blind alleys, or responding to acts of provocation from our opponents. Over the last few years the National Front has mapped out its way forward and nothing is now going to divert us from our task, the end result of which is to give SELF DETERMINATION TO THE BRITISH NATION!!

Ian Anderson - The NF will fill the political vacuum.

George Nye Gets a £30,000 Payout from Channel Four!

"THE NATIONAL Front has been organising paramilitary training on a private farm in Kent. Instruction has been provided by an ex-Rhodesian mercenary and has included weapons training" - so ran the allegations in the Channel 4 docu-drama programme Dispatches subsequently repeated in a Kent newspaper.

The allegations are, of course, entirely untrue and no such events took place on the Kent farm or anywhere else. At the time of the programme, broadcast in 1988, the National Front was in no condition to do much more than lodge a complaint with the Independent Broadcasting Authority which, as usual, did next to nothing. We were not terribly worried by these ridiculous allegations - firstly because very few people watch Channel 4, and those who do probably don't believe much of what they see.

However, longstanding NF member and former NF Parliamentary candidate George Nye, the owner of the farm, was badly damaged by the publicity. Although his neighbours and friends knew the allegations were a load of rubbish, George ran a riding school which attracted people from further away and George lost a lot of business and was finally forced to close down his school.

However on Friday 8th November George had the last laugh - in the Royal Courts of Justice in The Strand, central London. The lawyers appearing for Channel 4 read out a formal retraction of the allegations in Court and agreed to pay an out-of-Court settlement of £30,000; this is on top of the £10,000 already paid by the Kent newspaper.

This money won't fully compensate George, who was at the Court with NF chairman Ian Anderson, for his losses and the worry and time he has spent on the case - however it might just teach Channel 4 to be a bit more careful with the researchers they use.

Surprise, surprise, not a single national newspaper or national television station covered the result, even so, well done George.

Council Ignores Petition

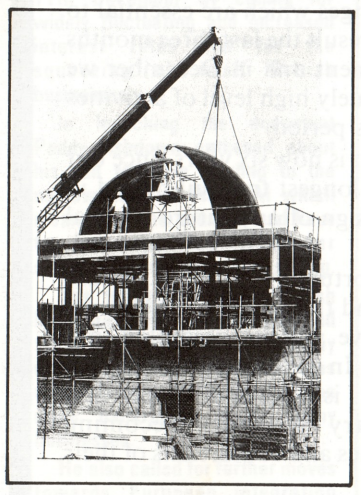
by Stephen Ebbs

PERMISSION TO build an Islamic Training Academy on Moss Street, in Blackburn, has been granted by the local council despite a 566-name petition opposing it.

The £1.5 million centre, including a mosque, will be built on a three acre site once occupied by the British Northrop Engineering Works.

Local residents are up in arms because they are already subjected to calls from the nearby Wailing Tower at the Whalley Range Mosque.

There are already 17 mosques in Blackburn. Yes, 17 mosques established in a town with a population of 110,000 in just 30 years.



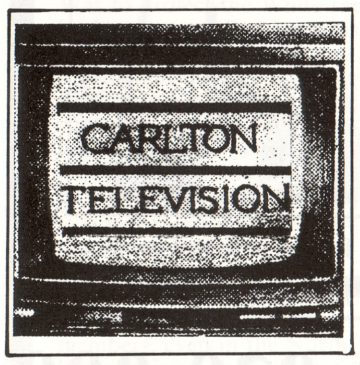
Blackburn is not the only town in Lancashire suffering from the growth industry of mosque-building. This one is going up in nearby Nelson.

THE NAME CHANGE MEANS NOTHING

DON'T HOLD out any hope that Carlton Television, which replaces Thames Television, will lead to any revival in patriotic viewing.

One look at the background of Carlton boss Michael Green reveals that the change is a step in the wrong direction.

Green received a traditional Jewish upbringing and attended Great Portland Street Synagogue. He married Janet Wolfson, grand-daughter of Lord Issac Wolfson.



His close friends are Lord Rothschild, Lord Young, Gerald Ratner, and Charles Saatchi, and he joins the likes of Michael Grade (Channel 4) and Alan Yentop (BBC 2) in strengthening the pro-Israeli grip on British broadcasting.

Under a National Front Government only Britons would be entrusted with the responsibilty of broadcasting to the Nation.

Traditional Rhyme is Racist!

CHILDREN AT schools in Nottingham are singing Moo Moo Dairy Cow to the tune of Baa Baa Black Sheep.

Notts County councillor, Patrick Tipping said the words had been changed because the traditional nursery rhyme was considered 'racist'.

HOCH WAS A K.G.B. SPY!

NOW THAT HE can no longer silence his critics with bogus libel writs backed by unlimited embezzled and stolen cash, the truth is coming out about the man who - lying in this as in everything else - called himself "Captain Robert Maxwell, M.C."

Not only was he a crook and con-man who even robbed his own employees' pension fund. It has now emerged that he was a traitor to the country whose passport he so arrogantly brandished, and in whose Parliament he sat for six years as a Labour M.P. - our country!. Russians, blinking in the daylight of freedom that has dawned after 75 years of Red darkness, have been throwing open the dungeons, death camps and torture chambers of the Marxist KGB. And in the process going through the files of this mass murder machine, guess what they found? Cap'n "Forward with Britain" Bob was a KGB agent all along!

As his biographer Tom Bower revealed in Maxwell: The Outsider, published on December 12th, in 1946 in Berlin, whilst still an officer - under a variety of aliases - in the British Army, Maxwell signed an undertaking to help the KGB as and when required. As a loyal Soviet agent, Maxwell set up his Pergamon Press to publish Moscow's scientific and other propaganda in the West. According to Yuri Leonov, general director of the Soviet state publishers when this started in 1954, Maxwell always "expressed sympathy towards the Soviet Union". His legal advisor, Yuri Gradov, also now at last free to tell the truth, reveals "I was told to forget about making money. Maxwell was to have rights to the (Soviet scientific) journals for propaganda purposes. My superiors wanted a source of propaganda in the West". Not that Maxwell forgot about making money: his exclusive rights to Red science publishing was a nice little earner for him, if not for Pergamon Press, which had to be bailed out with Red cash. Earlier this year Russian patriots going through the Communist party archives found Maxwell's firm listed as "friendly" and owed £500,000.

Later, in the 1980's, Maxwell's Pergamon Press was to publish not only dodgy Red science tomes but even dodgier grovelling biographies of Soviet bloc dictators, Maxwell's so-called "World Leaders Series". The former Labour MP and soon-to-be owner of Britain's second-biggest-circulation daily paper heaped fawning praise on corrupt, brutal Soviet quisling tyrants across Eastern Europe. Gustav Husak, a grey Communist hack imposed on Czechoslovakia by Soviet tanks in 1968, was described in his Maxwell biography as "this impressive man" Tudor Zhivkov, Moscow's puppet overlord in Bulgaria was credited by "Cap'n Bob" with building "a prosperous and happy nation". Zhivkov agreed - he awarded Maxwell Bulgarian Communism's highest award, the Order of Stara Planina, First Class, an unusual distinction for a prominent British Labour Party supporter. The Bulgarian people had a less rosy view of their tyrant - he is now on trial facing murder and corruption charges. Nicolae Ceaucescu of Rumania, probably the biggest mass murderer of the bunch, was trumpeted by Maxwell in his 1983 Pergamon publication Nicolae Ceaucescu: Builder of Modern Romania and International Statesman as devoting "constant, tireless activity for the good of his country". The Rumanian people didn't agree - after a bloody revolution they put the old butcher on trial and shot him.

But Maxwell's treason didn't just extend to publishing Communist propaganda. Worse, it now emerges that this supposed "British patriot" made speeches in the House of Commons to KGB orders whilst Labour MP for Buckingham from 1964-70. Notably over the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia in August 1968. In May that year, Maxwell was personally briefed on the impending smashing by Soviet tanks of the "Prague Spring" of Czech freedom by KGB supreme commander Yuri Andropov at a meeting in Moscow. In August, after the invasion, Maxwell duly rose in the House of Commons to call for no Government action against the Soviet invaders. As he told the Commons then, Czechoslovakia was the country of his birth. He betrayed that, too. But for the collapse of Communism, a KGB agent would today own the Daily Mirror and much of the British Press, an imposing mouthpiece for Moscow if its lies had not been silenced by the brave Russian people themselves.

With his Soviet paymasters defunct, where Maxwell hawked his loyalty next can be surmised from the national hero's near State Funeral he got from the one land which did have some claim on his rootless soul - Israel. For Robert Maxwell may have held a British passport, and he may have been born in Czechoslovakia. But his real name was Hoch - his first names are given variously as Jan Ludvik and Lajbi. And he was born a Jew. If at the last he was true to his blood, he was not utterly contemptible.

But that blood wasn't British. For whatever he was, he wasn't British. And he clearly didn't become a loyal Briton, let alone an honest one, just by being given a British passport, even if it did open the doors of the British Parliament to him. And that is the real moral of the Maxwell story. Not corruption in business by a dubious tycoon. But betrayal of our nation by a foreigner who should never have been given its citizenship.

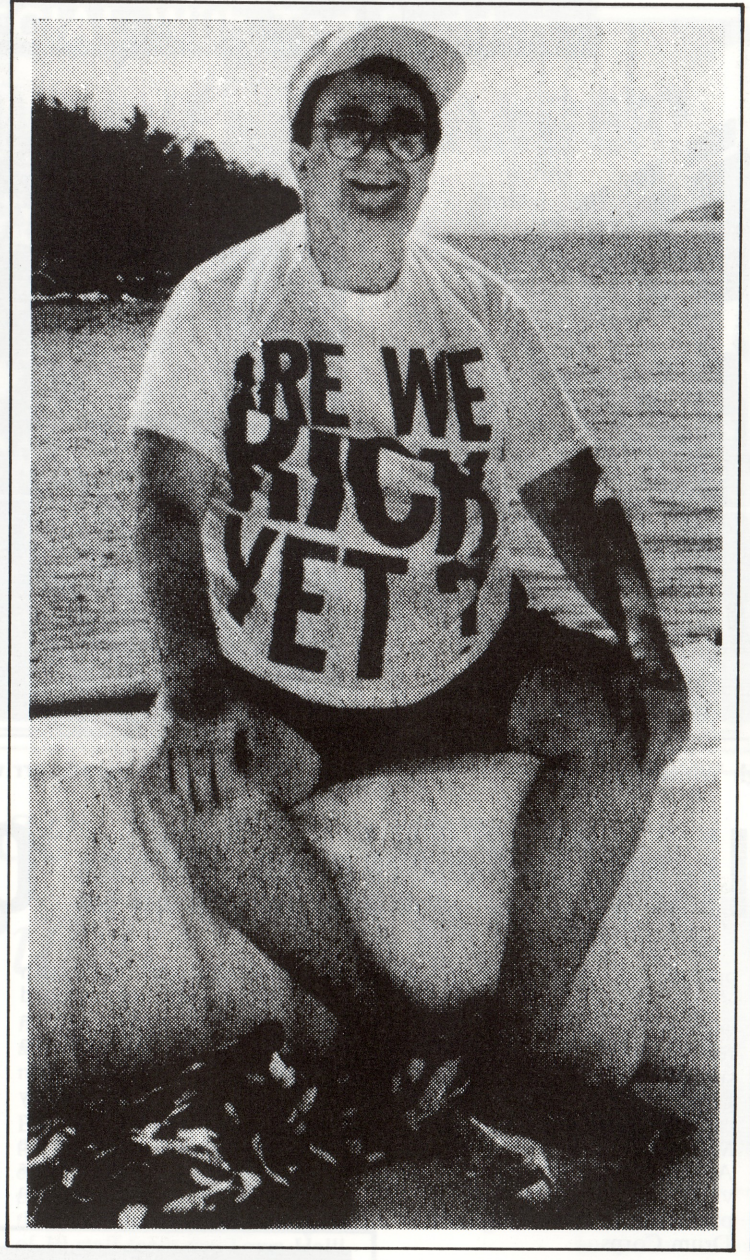
The National Front has always warned about Maxwell's unBritish loyalties - The FLAG has been doing so since Issue No.3 back in September 1986. We were right. Just as we are right to warn that Robert Maxwell isn't the only foreigner, or even the millionth, to be given a British passport without having the least bond of blood to our land.

He won't be the last to turn out to have been rotted to the core with treason, either. Being given a bit of paper, even adopting a bogus "British-sounding" name, doesn't make you a true Briton. Only blood can do that. As blood bound Hoch/"Maxwell" in the end to his own people, the Israelis. Without that blood bond, paper nationality does not confer loyalty to the nation. As our rulers will find, when the true loyalities of millions of paper "Britons" no more British than Labji Hoch come out the wash as Hoch's have.

"It was the betrayal of our nation by a foreigner who should never have been given its citizenship"

HOCH'S IMAGE UNTARNISHED IN ISRAEL

Labji Hoch, alias Robert Maxwell, remains one of Israel's favourite sons despite the revelations about his criminal activities. The Israeli media has completely ignored the disclosures concerning his financial dealings rather choosing to report sob-stories on the alleged extermination of Hoch's relatives in the gas chambers at Auschwitz. A tale which, in the light of recent forensic evidence revealing that there were no gas chambers at Auschwitz, looks like just another lie from a man whose life was built on lies.



WELCOME BACK UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA

by Stephen Ebbs

BEFORE WORKING the Edinburgh to Perth Forth Bridge Centenary special train, Gresley A4 Pacific Locomotive No. 60009 was named Osprey on 4th March 1990. Why was it named Osprey?

Briefly, her history is that she entered traffic for the London and North Eastern railway in June 1937 and was withdrawn from British Railways in June 1966. Subsequently she was privately purchased for preservation. During her entire working life she was only ever allocated to Scottish Shed, new to Haymarket and then to Aberdeen in May 1962. Among her duties was the "Coronation" high speed train service. She served her various owners excellently. However, throughout her revenue earning service she carried the name Union of South Africa.

Her history made her an appropriate choice for the special train but the mentioning of South Afria in her name was enough to make Edinburgh City Council scream "racist". And hence her renaming. Note that she was named Union of South Africa and not Republic of South Africa.

Dr. J.D. Prideaux the managing-director of Inter-City.

However this story does have a happy ending. On the 14th September 1991 she was renamed Union of South Africa at Edinburgh Waverley Station by Dr. J.D.C.A. Prideaux the managing director of Inter-City.

Even our beloved steam locomoties, a glorious reminder of our transport and mechanical engineering heritage have fallen victim - thankfully, in this case, temporarily - to the multi-racial poison discharged by those in office, in this instance, Edinburgh City Council. Is anything sacred?

Welcome back Union of South Africa. You are undeniably a graceful lady.

REALITY & PATRIOTISM

HOPEFUL NEWS from Britain's higher education establishments that today's students are becoming more in touch with reality as well as showing signs of patriotism.

Student Union members at Manchester Polytechnic have voted 95-70 in favour of changing the name of their building from Winnie Mandela. It is now to be called after Bruce Forsyth which although not ideal is definitely a step in the right direction.

Parent Power!

PARENTS FROM Greenfields Primary School in Hartley Whitney, Hampshire, got a Christmas play about Hinduism cancelled when they withdrew their children from it.

The story of the return from exile of Hindu God, Rama, was not what the parents wanted, preferring their children to have the traditional nativity play.

FRANCE OPENS HER EYES TO IMMIGRATION!

EFFECTIVE PROPAGANDA
This NF recruitment poster was banned in France.

FRENCH NATIONAL FRONT President Jean-Marie Le Pen's visit to London in early December was a major triumph for Europe's most successful patriotic leader. He met more fellow patriots elected to the European Parliament from more European nations than ever before. He met British patriots also and to them and to the British and World Press he hammered home his message of national pride, ethnic resurgence and the rebirth of a Europe of free sovereign nations, once more belonging to its native peoples rather than Third World Immigrant hordes.

By Our Staff Reporter

M. Le Pen was in ebullient good humour throughout his visit. Not surprisingly, his NF reently won the votes of 14% of the French electorate, its highest figure ever. Recent polls have shown that 38% of the French people back his calls for repatriation of Coloured Immigrants.

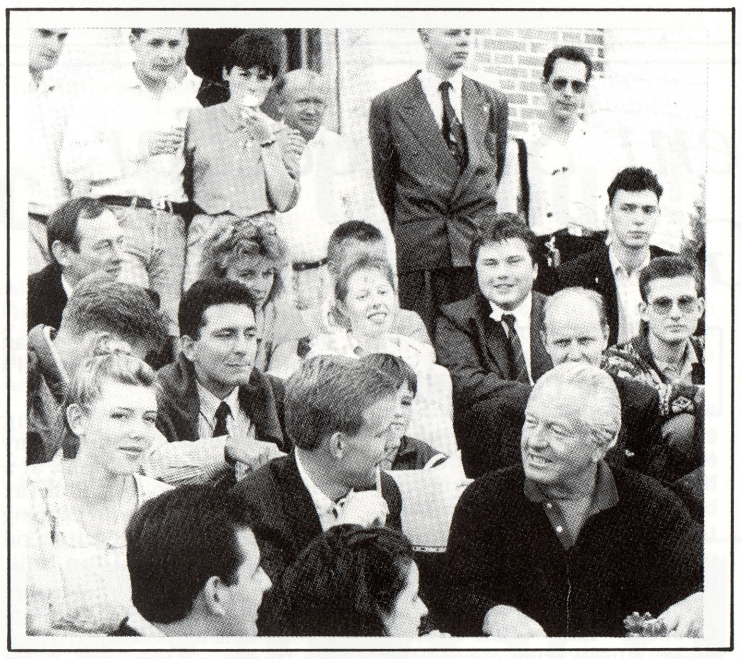
The traditional French Tories, the RPR and UDF, are hopelessly divided. Their leaders d'Estaing and Chirac are falling over themselves to jump aboard M. Le Pen's anti-Immigration bandwagon. French Tory Chirac sank to crude comments about "the foul smells caused by Immigrant neighbours" which M. Le Pen rightly observed would have got any NF member uttering them prosecuted under the Frence Race Act.

The French Socialists crumble and the Communists collapse as more and more working-class French people swing to the NF. Whilst his allies in the European bloc in the European Parliament are there in greater numbers than ever before. Days prior to his London visit, M. Le Pen heard that his allies in the Vlaams Blok in Belgium had seen their strength in their country's Parliament rocket from 2 to 12 MP's.

After talks with his Euro-Right allies M. Le Pen met British National Front Deputy Chairman, Steve Brady, on the morning of December 6th. At a press conference after the meeting, despite mediocre translation facilities, the French patriot hit back hard at a mostly hysterically hostile media pack.

He pointed out that France has been flooded with ten million Coloured Immigrants, mostly from North Africa and French-speaking Black Africa. Some French towns, like their answer to our Blackburn, the northern industrial city of Roubaix, are 40% immigrant. He strongly defended his repatriation policy, which he said was in the interests of the immigrants as much as the natives. He forthrightly condemned racial attacks, desecration of cemeteries and the like, used to smear the French NF although there has never been been any evidence to link them with such crimes.

M. Le Pen then went over to the attack, demanding to know why racial attacks on immigrants were trumpeted in the Press whilst those upon Whites were ignored. He highlighted the violence of which the French NF has been the victim - the bomb which destroyed their Paris HQ in 1976, the car-bomb assassination of Front leader Francois Duprat a couple of years later, all the way to the gang-rape of an NF girl activist by Arabs in Avignon earlier this year. Where were the Press then, he asked?



FRANCE'S YOUNG NATIONAL FRONT

The YNF in France aims to activate the nation's youngsters and establish the movement in schools, technical colleges and universities. It is where the political and activist training of French youth takes place and is the spawning ground for the Party's officers of tomorrow.

M. Le Pen denounced the "intellectual terrorism" waged against patriots in Britain perhaps even more than in France by the unholy alliance of media and mob, of Press smears and Marxist/anarchist/immigrant thugs. That, no doubt, is why, he suggested, the half-dozen Tory MPs (who The FLAG could name, but not being intellectual terrorists won't!) who had wanted to meet him lost their nerve and didn't. Later that day M. Le Pen was himself to see this in action in the heart of London.

Most interesting for us were his comments on why there is no British NF of a size comparable to his own. M. Le Pen echoed exactly the words of The FLAG editorial, "Good Luck Jean-Marie!", on this very subject, in issue 18 back in April 1988. We said then: "Proportional representation is the only reason the National Front in France are more advanced than the National Front in Britain". That's what M. Le Pen says now. He added that when Britain's "brutal electoral system" was replaced by PR in Euro-elections soon "then we will find out the true composition of the British electorate".

The same evening British National Front Deputy Chairman Steve Brady was a guest at an exclusive banquet in M. Le Pen's honour in a Central London hotel.

Flanked by his able lieutenants and his charming wife Jeannie, with a thousand howling hate-filled hysterical Red scum baying and attacking the Police outside, M. Le Pen delivered a hard-hitting and inspiring speech, this time ably translated as he went along.

LE PEN AND HIS NATIONAL FRONT

In France, the National Front is the only force combating cosmopolitan Socialism and denouncing the Socialists' collusion with the ranks of the 'so-called right'. As the only alternative to Socialism the NF sees its duty to gather together the French people who want to ensure the survival, the identity, the power and the prosperity of the country.

ONE WORLD

Slamming the Common Market, which he opposes as do we, the man whom more and more Frenchmen see as their next president warned "what threatens us at Maastricht is veritable machine to destroy the nations of Europe". He condemned "the technocratic and bureaucratic Europe of Brussels" in whose minds Maastricht is "just a step toward creating a One-World System'. "The abandonment of our national currencies is intolerable" he thundered. He offered instead the vision of a Europe of independent, full sovereign states, freely united in friendship by a common civilization against a common threat, "the Third World which doubles its population every thirty years, whilst in France and Britain the native population is not even maintaining its numbers". As he issued the clarion call "Nationalists of all countries, unite!" his audience, inspired, rose as one in a heartfelt standing ovation.

An Inevitable Death

"EXPORT OR DIE" have been the watchwords of Tory industrial policy over the last twenty-five years. 1992 will see that policy come to fruition in the British Car Industry. The industry will not be exporting. It will be dying.

The Bankers deemed that trade between countries was the goal to be aimed for. Not because countries needed the goods made by other countries, but because such sales would encourage the exchange of currency between countries thus enabling the bankers to claim their pound of flesh.

Most countries have a car industry. A great many countries could be self-sufficient in their own cars if they chose to be. The British car industry could easily provide cars for the British people, if it was the case our motor industry would be booming.

But no, the Bankers decreed that Britain must export, so we aimed our sights of the foreign market and did nothing as those foreign markets flooded our home with their goods. Foreign factories were even invited to Britain to build their cars to flood Britain from within and put British car workers on the dole. When Britain's car industry finally dies these foreign factories will close up and be gone to the centre of Europe leaving Britain a wasteland of derelict car factories and out-of-work car workers.

1991 saw exports of British cars fall 2%. A significant drop in an industry which can claim only a 21.6% of its home market. The car industry now faces a rapid downturn in production which will result in, by the middle of 1992, massive job losses and factory closures.

Only the National Front can save Britain's car industry. From the day we take power there would be an immediate ban on foreign car imports. All foreign car-making factories on British soil would be closed down. The only cars sold in Britain would be British cars, built in British factories, by British workers.

The Same Again

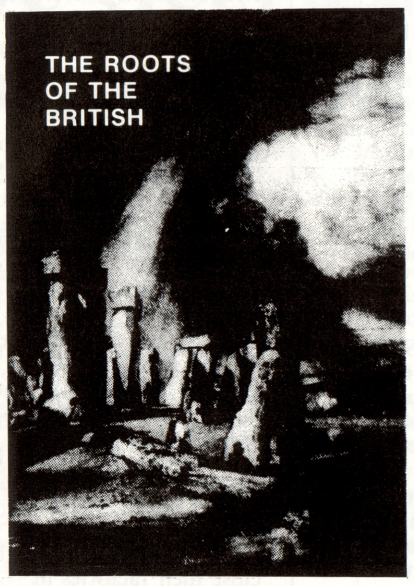
THE REVELATIONS with regard to Robert Maxwell, alias Labji Hoch, reported elsewhere in this issue, come as no surprise to those British Nationalists active with the National Front over the past twenty-odd years.

Hoch was not British and hence owed no loyalty to Britain. His "Forward with Britain" Daily Mirror was a smokescreen through which he denigrated British Nationalism and everything pro-British.

Former Home Secretary, Leon Brittan - we don't know whether that is his real name - is of the same ilk. This Lithuanian Jew has been busily promoting Japanese interests within Europe over the last three months and attacking British Nationalism

It is of course the prerogative of the Maxwells and the Brittans of this world to criticise the National Front and its policies if they so wish. But they should do so as individuals of another country and another race, instead of misleading the British people by pretending to be one of them.

The Roots of the British



Who are we as a people? Where did the British come from? Are we a nation of immigrants as some multi-culturalists would argue?

All this and more is answered in STEVE BRADY'S brilliant book.

Ashdown's policies will hit the small businessman.

Liberals Support the City Sharks

THE Liberal Democrats launched their "Manifesto for Business" on 11th December by calling for widely fluctuating and increased interest rates and for the squeezing of small British businesses.

In launching the document Paddy Ashdown enthused about his call to move sterling to the narrow band of the ERM which means that the pound would have to be supported whenever currency speculators start selling.

The traditional way in which both the Liberal Democrats and the Tories would do this is by dramatically raising interest rates which is currently leading to the mass bankruptcy of so many businesses.

He also called for further moves towards European integration which benefits the large multinationals at the expense of smaller businesses.

It is hardly surprising that there is increasing talk of a Lib.Dem/Tory pact after the election. Can you imagine it? John Major and Paddy Ashdown as the two men in grey suits - they would make the men from the Bradford & Bingley look positively exciting!

GREVILLE JANNER SPECIAL With Ted Budden

HOW STRANGE TO INVOLVE A STRANGER!

IT IS good to know that the disgraceful allegations made against Leicester Labour M.P. Mr. Greville Janner in a recent child abuse trial have been scotched. Mr. Janner, you may recall, was alleged by a defendant and some witnesses in that case to have had improper relations with a "rent boy" while the child was in the care of a Leicestershire Social Services home.

This must have caused Mr Janner, who is not only an M.P. but a Q.C. and a former President of the Board of Deputies of British Jews, great distress for he is, as we all know, an honourable man.

I'm sure all our hearts were gladdened by the news that the police have found no evidence to substantiate such allegations and by his dignified rebuttal of them in the House of Commons to the accompaniment of sympathetic cheers from all sides of the House.

Perhaps Mr Janner, so often the prime mover in the "race relations" legislation that has resulted in the persecution of so many British patriots, now knows what it is like to be persecuted.

It is odd that the defendant and the witnesses in that case should have sought to involve a perfect stranger in the proceedings when it could surely have done nothing to aid their case. One wonders why the police have not charged them with wasting police time and public money.

A thorough investigation and a possible prosecution is surely necessary in order to uphold the honour not only of Mr Janner but of all the other honourable M.P's.

For there will be ill-natured people who will suspect that the police haven't wasted any time at all on an investigation and who will discount the hear hearing of other honourable M.P's by recalling that another former Labour M.P - the evil sexual pervert Tom Driberg - was saved from prosecution and had his crimes covered up by influential people such as Churchill's chum the late Lord Beaverbrook.

Mr Janner surely owes it not only to his own fine reputation but to that of all other honourable M.P's to insist that the whole murky business be given a thorough airing.

After all, there must be other honourable M.P's who don't deserve to be either in jail or hanging from the nearest lamp post - possibly as many as one or two.

The Real Face of Labour!

THE PARTY of the working class now led by Glenys, oops sorry, Neil Kinnock has invited all its unemployed and its underpaid members to a dinner at the Park Lane Hotel on 13th February. They will be able to enthuse and gasp at a speech by Neil Kinnock and "mingle with the celebrities".

All they have to do is to stump up a mere £500 a head - a sum that they should all be able to afford out of their dole payments or even the average worker's weekly wage which is now just over £170 per week. Just think three weeks work so that you can listen to an old Welsh windbag over a plate of leek soup.

A Decent Service For the General Public

by DARREN COPELAND

LOCAL GOVERNMENT falls into the habitual trap reserved for all public services whereby they lose sight of what they're supposed to be doing - providing a service for the general public. Instead it develops into a bureaucracy which views the general public as being there for its own benefit.

Of course the most obvious examples of this are in the loony London boroughs such as Brent, Haringey, Islington and Lambeth, where the local Poll Tax-payers are having to fork out for meddling bureaucrats who act as thought police to enforce their local councils bizarre views on "racism", "sexism", "heightism" or any other "ism" their political masters tiny minds can come up with.

In Liverpool things were even worse with the Militant led local Council inventing 'jobs for the boys' schemes to combat the city's high unemployment which eventually led to the Council bankrupting itself and rubbish being piled up in the streets when the public service unions objected to the job cut-backs forced on the city.

But its not only Labour Councils that waste voters money. In Worthing, in West Sussex, the Conservative-led council is in danger of being capped through its mismanagement of funds. For example it re-decorated the reception area of the Housing Department Offices, despite the fact that the Housing Department was to be transferred into the new Civic Centre in Portland Road. These Housing Department Offices are now unused and are likely to be demolished and the new £2.5 million Civic Centre is now an albatross around the Council's neck.

More recently Worthing Borough Council decided to buy the Mayor a new limousine at a cost of £38,500 to local Poll Tax payers. Now faced with capping they are talking about getting rid of 10 staff from the Town Hall!

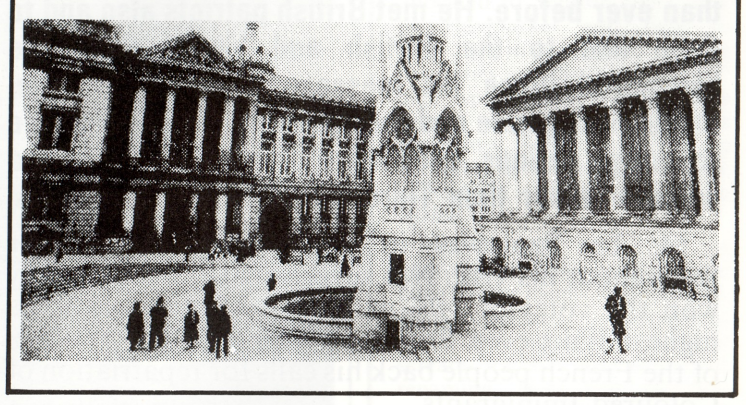
So what can be done to ensure that Local Government is more accountable to those who pay for it. Under a National Front government Local Government would be restructured with the large urban boroughs, which have bred the massive bureaucracies already mentioned, being broken into smaller units. Smaller, more personal local councils which were far more directly answerable to local people and thus far less likely to indulge in crackpot policies. They would also have to answer directly to local people for their expenditure.

The National Front has consistently opposed the Poll Tax, and the proposed Council Tax is simply a variation on the same theme. Most of Labour's many proposals such as the House Tax and Fair Rates system are ill-thought out half-baked policies.

A National Front government would introduce a local Income Tax that would be collected by the Inland Revenue, thus saving on the vast cost of collecting the Poll Tax or its replacement.

A set portion of Income Tax would then go directly to local authorities, this would be a much fairer system than the present one as it would take into account people's income and ability to pay.

It is about time that the politicians and the bureaucrats involved stopped using local government as a prop for their power complexes and egos and got back to what they are supposed to be doing providing a decent service for the British public at minimum costs!



Birmingham Town Hall: Large Urban Borough Councils must be broken up into smaller units.

The Same the Whole World Over

SOME YEARS ago I had the pleasure of meeting David Duke. Mr Duke was a clean cut young American; a college graduate, intelligent and articulate - he was also the leader of the Ku Klux Klan.

Now the Ku Klux Klan was formed in the Southern States of America after the Civil War to protect the White race in the prostrate South against the depredations of Yankee looters and their swaggering Black stooges who had been packed into the state legislatures by a vengeful North to humiliate a brave but totally defeated enemy.

It was a respected and honoured organisation right up to the beginning of the Second World War and had hundreds of thousands of members, even in the North. After the war, the follies of some of its members and the unrelenting barrage of multi-racialist propaganda through every facet of the media succeeded in discrediting the organisation in the eyes of most of the gullible populace. Well, we all know just how the system works, don't we?

David Duke saw it as his mission to restore the Ku Klux Klan to its former honoured position by advancing a rational justification for racial separation - the sort of quixotic crusade that the young undertake against all the odds. The odds, of course, were too great even for David Duke.

I still remember him, however, as an engaging real American who spent a few pleasant days in Brighton while the press were informing us that the police were hunting for this fiend in human shape lest he say something that might corrupt our innocent ears.

Well, the name of David Duke came to the fore again about a year ago when he had the temerity to stand for the state legislature of Louisiana. Immediately all the big guns of the media propaganda circus were trained on him and B'nai B'rith (the so-called Jewish Anti-Defamation League) despatched its agents on the dirty tricks campaign that had destroyed the careers of so many of the better American politicians.

All to no avail. The citizens of Mr Duke's constituency were somewhat wiser and braver than people in Britain (a not-too-difficult accomplishment) and, unlike people in Britain, were not impressed by the propaganda of people who were dedicated to their destruction.

So David Duke won his seat and this encouraged him to stand just recently for election to the Governorship of Lousiana.

The barrage of hate that he had faced before was as nothing to the orchestrated massed choirs of lies and vilification that now echoed throughout the land - not just in the U.S. but in Britain where the twittering of outraged "liberals" mounted to a shrill crescendo. Lord, how they hate their own race, these "liberals".

Meanwhile, back in the U.S.A., the Government casually leaked the rumour that Government contracts might be withheld from Lousiania should David Duke by elected. That mysterious but oft-reported body "leading businessmen" considered that they might close their factories in Louisiana if its citizens were so insubordinate as to vote the wrong way. That totally non-political body the U.S. Athletic Association hinted that if Mr Duke was the people's choice, they might remove the forthcoming U.S. Olympic Trials from Lousiana.

Lastly, when it seemed that all this might have failed to whip the people of Louisiana into cowering compliance, President Bush, "the most powerful man on earth", was ordered to intervene and, naturally, he did.

Incredibly, the Republican President urged people not to vote for David Duke, the Republican candidate, but to come out in droves to vote for his Democratic opponent.

So, on polling day, uncomprehending Blacks were collected from their shacks all over the state and bussed to the polling booths to vote the right way.

The following day, the first item on the BBC's news bulletin was the announcement that David Duke had been "roundly defeated". The note of triumph was unmistakable. In fact, David Duke won a large majority of the White vote but lost the election. Louisiana now has a White renegade Governor who relies for his very existence on the Black support that renders him their captive. Just like Britain, in fact.

The Ted Budden Column

Ted Budden was a founder member of the National Front. In his column he gives his view of the world.

His comments and observations do not necessarily reflect NF Policy.

Goodbye Civilisation

BRITISH JUSTICE has taken a fair old bashing lately. There is scarcely a criminal in prison who does not claim to have been wrongly convicted and while it cannot be denied that the British police, once laughingly described as "the envy of the world", do routinely lie under oath, it now seems that judges have a positive mania for releasing convicted murderers from jail on the flimsiest pretexts.

Perhaps, like the judges of the American Supreme Court, they believe that they have the right to decide what is the law despite what the elected representatives of the people think.

Perhaps the "Birmingham Six" and the "Broadwater Three" whose convictions were quashed as "unsafe" really were innocent. The fact remains, however, that people were butchered by the IRA in Birmingham and PC Keith Blakelock did not hack himself to death.

The glee shown by the media creatures at the quashing of the convictions is not shared by me. The law has been discredited, justice has been denied, and there are people walking free who have literally got away with murder.

The sight of the odious loon Tony Benn chairing a press conference at the LSE where Mark Braithwaite and Engin Raghip were on exhibition as innocent victims of the system, caused me grave disquiet as did the picture of this pair being embraced by Billy Power of the "Birmingham Six".

What did they have in common do you suppose. Certainly the pleasure of seeing the British discomfited

It looks increasingly like a battle between the low-life, aided and abetted by the media trash and the lawyers, and civilisation itself.

Alas, I have a nasty feeling that civilisation is losing.

Fagin's Own

LABJI HOCH, alias Robert Maxwell, is dead and buried on the Mount of Olives in Israel where his heart always lay, honoured by every crook and gangster in the Israeli Government.

Like his predecessor in the fifties, Sidney Stanley, Maxwell traded on the gullibility of greedy, stupid, and treacherous well-connected Gentiles so it is perhaps appropriate that he should have found his final haven in the same place.

Of course we all knew that he was a crook; a typical specimen of the breed that prospers in our society by shuffling paper and being devoid of the merest shred of principle that a few Gentiles still find such a grievous handicap in Thatcher-style Britain.

Worst of all his crimes, as we now know, was the manner in which this thief looted the pension fund of his own employees - pretty strong stuff from a former Labour M.P. and self-styled champion of the poor and down-trodden.

Among those who had their money stolen must be our good friend Paul Foot, the weasel-featured Super-Trot who was employed as a columnist on Maxwell's Daily Mirror.

Foot, the lion of the Socialist Workers Party, likes to present himself as a fearless investigative journalist; the exposer of capitalist scandals and the hammer of thieving plutocrats. Isn't it strange that during all his time on the Daily Mirror Foot never ventured any criticism of his employer or exposed any of the scandals that were taking place under his very nose.

It surely cannot be that the fearless Trot was afraid of losing his job? It's all very disappointing - rather like discovering that Robin Hood was stooging for Fagin.

Unlike most people, who were positively gleeful when they heard of his death, I was genuinely sorry. It had always been my ambition to see the heartless villain exposed and sent to jail as he so richly deserved. On reflection though, since crooks of his type usually escape with a cushy six months in Ford Open perhaps it all turned out for the best after all.

Come on Lads!

IN RECENT months there has been an increased number of articles in our newspapers that mention the National Front. It is vital that between now and the General Election the Party must increase leafletting, papersales and the putting up of posters and stickers to keep the name of the NF in the public's mind.

I was at a social evening in November and at my table there were 10 seated and as the debate, as usual, went on to race, out of the 10 - four supported the National Front, four other parties and two couldn't care less. The main part of the debate was the difficulty in contacting the National Front and its local branches.

Come on lads; for the next six months let's have an all out effort to promote the National Front.

Bill Taylor,
Barking,

No Excuse for Inaction

I AM a student at Swansea University and have found a useful way to supplement NF stickers and leaflets.

The last two times I have tried to obtain new stickers and leaflets I have found that there were none left in stock (A surprisingly comforting sign). Determined not to be left out I spent £2.00 for 30 cards from one of those Business Card machines.

I was able to advertise the National Front and its address as well as two slogans. These have been distributed around the University. So if anyone of your readers is out of stickers and leaflets there is no excuse for inaction!

Needless to say I plan to make use of this facility again in the future.

Alec Malinder,
Swansea.

One Lives - One Learns

AS A '39-45 war veteran I marched with the National Front for their "Remembrance Day Service" to the Cenotaph.

As one lives, one learns is a very true saying. A few days after the event I sat down and read thoroughly the programme for the event understanding for the first time why the National Front holds the parade every year come rain or shine.

The part that caught my eye was the fact that Rhodesians and South Africans had served in Britain (The Battle of Britain), the Middle East and Near East and died defending our cause from foreign aggression.

During operations as ground staff in Corsica, Italy and the South of France with 238 squadron, I was posted to 237(R) Squadron "Rhodesian", equipped with Spitfires and Mustangs. All of the ground and air crew had given good service in the interest of our war effort.

After a 3-5 year stint they were well overdue to return home that is why some of us were posted to the Squadron to maintain its strength until the end of hostilities by which time we were in Italy.

Ian Smith of Battle of Britain fame was in 237(R) as a fighter pilot. My namesake Flt. Lt. Sutton, a Rhodesian, bailed out of his aircraft and was lost off Corsica.

Throughout the campaign they put up a very good show which helped us win the final conflict against superior odds. These men are worthy of our remembrance.

The wrongs that politicians create, are the curse of the Nation. It is the work of the worthless and is contemptible.

A.E. Sutton,

Helping the British

WITH THE election now quite close I think the NF should produce a leaflet entitled "How You Can Help Fellow Britons and This Country". In it you could list such things as asking people to buy British goods as well as detailing National Front policies that directly help the British people.

I recently wrote to the RAC complaining of their use of Isuzu Troopers instead of British-made recovery vehicles. I received a detailed reply and it was obvious that the RAC was sensitive about their decision. If more people wrote in I think we could influence them in returning to British-made vehicles.

I, myself when purchasing items in shops ask if they are made in this country and make it clear that, if possible, I only wish to purchase British-made goods.

If all readers of The FLAG asked such questions of their shopkeepers I am certain it would have an effect. Also what about a letter from the local NF to the shopkeepers in their town asking them to display Union Jacks on British made goods - we could provide the Union Jack stickers. Also a sticker for the shop window . . . WE STOCK BRITISH GOODS: BUY BRITISH.

Torquay.

HASTY APPOINTMENT

Nottingham's much-publicised Asian ex-Sheriff.

THE MUCH promoted Asian Sheriff of Nottingham recently resigned after a few months in office and has appeared in court accused of embezzlement and other charges.

Nottingham National Front voiced its opposition to the appointment when it was announced via the local newspapers. It was opposition to an appointment ignoring the customary qualification of suitable and lengthy public service; it was an appointment that was purely political and on multi-racial grounds.

The recent revelation displays the folly of the choice. The customary measured period of prior public service would confirm the integrity and financial reliability of a candidate. The National Front everywhere should criticise the hasty and bypassing appointments of coloured immigrants to positions of high office.

P.H. Hart,
Nottingham.

Democratic, Coherent and Respectable

THE NATIONAL Front have frequently cited the Chinese from Hong Kong as the next flood of immigrants into the UK.

However after 1992 the EC allows for the free movement of people between all member states and because of this there is a strong possibility that an invasion will occur and that the British Government will not be able to restrict the incoming numbers.

Unfortunately, so-called Nationalists in Germany are sadly continuing to follow brutal, incoherent and irresponsible rantings of the 1930s. They have been using violent tactics to force immigrants in Germany to look for homes elsewhere.

And where better for these immigrants to go than Britain with its repressive Race Relations Acts making it a paradise for non-Europeans.

Nationalists in Germany are making a mistake in returning to the discredited ideology of their past. They should embrace the democratic, coherent and respectable Racial Nationalism such as that adhered to by the National Front.

Well Done

JUST A few lines to say thank you for a well-organised march and enjoyable Remembrance Day event.

I was very proud to march alongside fellow Britons and take part in the moving service at the Cenotaph. It was also nice to be able to pay our respects to Britain's War Dead without the screaming Left-Wing rabble that has plagued the parade in recent years.

Ian Anderson's rousing speech and the general professionalism of the event together with its videoing made all those there proud to be involved.

Melting Pot, or Cooking Pot City?

Think of England: A Touch of the Tar Brush - BBC TV 12/11/91 - Liverpool.

ONCE AGAIN we are treated to four programmes of self justification, dressed up as gospel truth, by John Akomfrah. This gentleman seems to take his 'water' from J.B. Priestly, who thought it would be a good idea for all of us to go along with his idea of the 'potential richness' of the multi-racial society, (a concept, incidentally, for which there has never been a vote, in order to give it authority), from his observations of the Liverpool of his day.

It is not at all surprising, of course, that a Black man should have the opportunity to air his views. After all, the freedom with which Mr Akomfrah advocates the multi-this-and-that-society, (while carrying on the general theme of telling us how naughty we mere natives are in the process), is not given to those who do not agree with it

Mr Akomfrah's idea of the beauty of the mixed-race child would be comical if it was not so sad.

So when do we mere natives of Britain get our right of reply? - Not on your nellie sunshine comes the answer!

Identifying with their Councils

GREAT NEWS at last with regards to the County Boundary saga. The Local Government Commission has been told by the people that they want councils with which they can identify.

No longer would people from Birmingham, Coventry, Walsall and Wolverhampton all be lumped together in the horribly-sounding West Midlands, but returned to their native Warwickshire, Staffordshire and Worcestershire.

Further afield that could also spell the end of other figments of imagination such as Avon and Cleveland. The move would only mean a change of address as the Government plans to abandon County Councils, but it is still an important change recognising a sense of identity with which people are proud

We must get the homeless of the streets of our towns and cities.

Getting the Homeless off the Streets

CRISIS AT Christmas succeeded in giving shelter, food and some sort of life to many of London's homeless for eight days over the festive season.

Not only does such a move help those living rough on the streets but it also improves the appearance of the capital removing those homeless from parks, stations and shop doorways.

With all the empty office/factory space in the capital at the moment I believe such plans to give shelter to the homeless should be extended to all the year round.

It is not giving an easy ride to the idle for the 'Crisis at Christmas' regime is very strict - no alcohol or drugs etc. It can help those genuinely wanting a way out of cardboard city and prepare them to take their places back in society.

J.R.Hartley

COULD THE success of the series of Yellow Pages adverts be something to do with the fact that they all focus on traditional British life?

Fly-fishing, Hornby Railways, cricket, a bicyle Christmas present and gardening are all very British and it is this, I am certain, brings a warm glow of nostalgia to the British public and hence their popularity.

The success in the best-selling book charts of J.R. Hartley's Fly-Fishing, a book written to cash in on the advertisements, shows just how the British yearn for the traditional British way of life something that is so rapidly disappearing.

GOOD NEWS FOR BRITAIN

Saving the Village Shop

BREATHING LIFE INTO Britain's dying villages is the purpose of the Rural Development Council. The FLAG has reported before on the excellent work done by this body in maintaining the traditional way of life in Britain's country towns and villages.

Their latest scheme involves support for the Village Shop which is at the heart of many rural communities. The pilot scheme by Norfolk County Library is to extend their service to villages in remote areas by the local shop stocking library books.

The Village Shop is at the heart of the rural community

At present villages have the service of a library van that visits once a week but if residents miss it then they have to wait until it returns the following week. Under the new scheme village shops will be given 500 new paperbacks and a computer terminal link with Norfolk's central information system. Any book could then be ordered and delivered to the village.

Rex Stedman, the assistant county librarian said "We are very concerned that village communities are disappearing, and often the village shop is the heart. When the shop goes the village is facing death. As far as we know this scheme has not been tried before, but other counties such as Herefordshire and Lincolnshire are interested".

The scheme which will last three years will cost £85,000 with the Rural Development Council meeting most of the cost. A library in the village shop is more than just a good idea. It could be a way of ensuring not only the shop's future but the future of the village.

★ WELL DONE the Rural Development Council. Your help to our village shops is GOOD NEWS FOR BRITAIN!

Backing British Taxis

HULL COUNCILLORS STRUCK a blow for the British car industry by banning Lada taxis from the streets of the city.

Humberside cabbies had been buying the cheap East European cars and turning them into taxis, but now any taxi firm renewing their 8-year licences must buy London-style black Hackney carriages.

★ WELL DONE to Hull City Council, your actions in banning foreign made taxis from your streets is a small but welcome shot in the arm for our car industry and is GOOD NEWS FOR BRITAIN!.

Foreign Imports Crushed

FULL MARKS TO West Sussex County Council who used a road-roller to crush 500 Hong Kong-made money boxes because the imported toys had edges sharp enough to cut a child's finger.

Of course a National Front Government would have saved the West Sussex community charge-payers the money and the Council the time by banning all foreign manufactured imports from entering Britain in the first place. But the Council's action is still worthy.

★ WELL DONE West Sussex County Council. Your action on the cheap foreign imports and the publicity gained by your unorthodox method of destroying them will help warn the public. Your road-roller stunt was GOOD NEWS FOR BRITAIN.

GOOD NEWS FOR BRITAIN!

Racial Abuse Excuses Threatening Behaviour!

by Stephen Ebbs

THREE builders were renovating a house in Blackburn Road, Accrington, when a Mr. Ashaq Hussain arrived there to complain about the way they had chased away a group of youngsters.

The youngsters had been told to move from the construction area for their own personal safety.

Hussain's complaint cut little ice with the builders and the Asian said he was going to go and get his team . . . and he did.

Within minutes the builders were surrounded by a gang of 20 plus Asians and subjected to a terrifying ordeal in which the Asians hurled bricks and other missiles.

When the police arrived they recovered a number of weapons including an axe and a knife and arrested five Asians for threatening behaviour.

In Court the defending solicitors commented that "the offence was committed in anger at racial abuse" and "it is quite likely that the beginnings of this incident had some racial overtones".

Whether racial abuse was used or not was not ascertained.

However the "punishment" given out to each of the five defendants - who all pleaded guilty was a 12 month conditional discharge and ordered to pay £80 costs.

Contrary to what we are always told, being Asian does have its benefits- they are treated with kidgloves before the bench.

FRAUDSTERS BEFORE HOMELESS

MORE THAN 14,000 council flats in London are being occupied illegally by fraudsters who are sub-letting and even selling the keys of the council properties.

More than £200 million could be saved on bed & breakfast payments if the 14,000 homes were occupied by families in genuine need.

There are more than 250,000 families on the London council house waiting lists and it is these people who are suffering from the widespread fraud.

WORLD CUP AWAKENS NATIONALISM

by John Hamilton

RUGBY FOOTBALL, a game invented by schoolboys of a public school in RUGBY, is a mans' game, a physical contact game, a game not to be played by whimps.

Now I don't profess to be an expert on the game, where I live, in Bolton, our towns main sport is soccer, some people may dispute that fact, as "The Wanderers" are languishing in the 3rd Division of the Football League.

The mining towns of Lancashire, such as Wigan, St. Helens, Leigh and Salford, play a revised game to Rugby Union, Rugby League, the difference being in the number of players, a slightly different scoring system and slightly different rules. I've never shown any interest in either of the games, not until the Rugby World Cup that is.

This Tournament came to the Northern Hemisphere, with all the media hype that is normally reserved for The Olympics, World Cup Soccer etc. So being a sporty person, I looked forward to watching England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales in their attempt in becoming World Champions.

THE HAKA

The first match of the Tournament was between England and the current World Champions, New Zealand, the "All Blacks". Before this game started the New Zealand team performed a traditional ritual "The Haka".

The expression on all the New Zealand players faces whilst performing this ritual was clear for all to see, the expression of national pride. I do believe that before the players are allowed to wear the famous all black strip they have got to learn "The Haka".

It is the same with the lowly Western Samoan team, they perform their version of "The Haka", it has been said that the Western Samoan's are the New Zealand Reserve team.

NATIONAL PRIDE

But who amongst us could not be impressed by both teams as they performed their ritual, everyone could see the expression of national pride on the faces of all the players, they believed in themselves and their nation. They were proud to wear their country's colours and they were very proud to be their country's ambassadors on the World Rubgy Union Football stage.

They knew that millions of people throughout the World were watching. The Kiwis and the Western Samoans did their countries proud, its a pity they could not have met in the final.

A lesson can be learned from these two great teams. Pride in your nation and not just on a sporting field. I have witnessed over the last 40 years my fellow countrymen demeaning themselves demoralising not only themselves but also their neighbours. But there are signs that they are awakening from the dark, they are awakening to the coming dawn. The new dawn of Nationalism and national pride. That new dawn was apparent for all to see in The Rugby Union World Cup Tournament.
